

Horizon 2.1 Personal Finance Analysis Program Released in Mac App Store

Published on 02/02/11

Ontario based Lucerne Systems today announces Horizon 2.1, exclusively in the Mac App Store. Horizon is a unique, calendar based personal financial analysis system. It adds the innovative new 'DayZoom' feature, and a special import feature for App Store developers. These additions to a number of bug fixes and enhancements increase the number of breakthrough features already found in Horizon 2.

Oakville (Ontario) Canada, Lucerne Systems today is pleased to announce the immediate availability of Horizon 2.1, exclusively in the Mac App Store. Horizon is the unique, calendar-based personal financial analysis system developed by Lucerne Systems. Horizon 2.1 adds the innovative new 'DayZoom' feature, and a special import feature for App Store developers. These additions to a number of bug fixes and enhancements increase the number of breakthrough features already found in Horizon 2.

"Horizon 2 has broken new ground in terms of usability and navigation", said Iain Delaney, President of Lucerne Systems. "We think that the new edit-in-place features, along with the the calendar navigation and transition animations, make Horizon 2 the simplest yet most powerful personal financial analysis program available for the Mac."

Horizon 2 builds on the unique calendar-based analysis concept introduced in Horizon by adding edit-in-place cells, simpler, 'infinite' repeats, a unique 'shuttle' control to navigate between months, and animated transitions between months and views.

System Requirements:

- * Mac OS X 10.6.6 or later
- * 1.2 MB

Price And Availability:

Horizon 2.1 is available now in the Mac App Store for only $29.95 (US) or the equivalent in local currency. Horizon 2.0 customers will be automatically upgraded through the Mac App Store. A free 30-day, fully functioning trial version is available from the Lucerne Systems home page.
