

Hurricane for the iPhone and iPod touch One Day Sale - October 25, 2011

Published on 10/25/11

Kitty Code, LLC announces the limited time sale of Hurricane, their leading hurricane tracking app for the iPhone and iPod touch, just in time to track Hurricane Rina in the Caribbean, near the Yucatan Peninsula. Hurricane features a fully interactive map complete with forecast cone, historical storm data, news and video from trusted sources and the latest storm information available within minutes direct from the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Orlando, Florida - Kitty Code, LLC announces that their best in class iOS hurricane tracking application Hurricane for the iPhone is on sale for just $1.99. With hurricane season not yet over in the Atlantic Ocean and Hurricane Rina seen as a possible threat to the U.S., the price of Hurricane has been reduced for a limited time.

Hurricane for the iPhone and iPod touch includes world tropical cyclone tracking and hurricane tracking on an interactive tracking map. Hurricane is the first application of its kind to cover tropical systems around the world. We've also added push notifications to keep you informed of any critical developments.

Hurricane is the only tracking application in the App Store to provide video updates from the professional storm trackers at HurricaneTrack.com. With an exclusive partnership with Kitty Code, LLC, the team from HurricaneTrack.com brings their years of tracking expertise to Hurricane for the iPhone with video updates both in the studio and out in the field when a tropical system threatens the U.S.

Also included is professional level tracking on a fully detailed map including 3 and 5 day warning cone as well as the full wind radius so you know how close dangerous winds will be.

"Hurricane was the first complex weather application added to the iTunes App Store, and the latest release of Hurricane builds upon the solid framework that our users have come to know and trust. The mapped forecast cone is an extremely important part of tracking hurricanes, showing you what areas could be affected. Hurricane takes this a step further giving you forecast wind radii data, effectively showing you the exact extent of these dangerous storms. Hurricane for the iPhone and iPod touch is the only application with these critical features", said Ilene Jones, Co-Founder and CEO of Kitty Code, LLC.
