

BKeeney Software Updates Font Pilot

Published on 01/20/10

BKeeney Software, Inc. today announced Font Pilot 2.5, an update to its popular font management software for Mac OS X. Font Pilot allows users to view their collection of fonts, as well as uninstalled fonts, quickly and easily. Additionally, Font Pilot offers numerous other features, such as the character map, key combo list, and print engine. Version 2.5 has several new enhancements that make getting font metrics and details easier than ever.

Lenexa, Kansas - BKeeney Software, Inc. today launched an updated version of Font Pilot, a font management software program for Mac OS X that allows users to preview fonts. The new version 2.5 has several new enhancement that make it easier to get font metrics and details without installing the font first.

With this maintenance release, a new registration system is now being used to make it easier to install on multiple machines without contacting support. Also users are prompted to install into the Applications directory if that is not where Font Pilot was installed originally.

Font Pilot allows users to view their collection of fonts, as well as uninstalled fonts, quickly and easily. Using its superior font management engine, Font Pilot searches for copyrights, licenses, descriptions, postscript names, file sizes, locations, and much more on individual fonts in your font library. Font Pilot allows you to browse an entire folder of fonts that are not installed with a visual preview function.

While viewing the slideshow of fonts, click the 'install' button at any time to have that font permanently installed and activated on the computer. Included amongst these great features, are numerous others such as the character map, key combo list, and print engine. Font Pilot is an essential font management software tool in any creative or graphic designer's repertoire. Font is available online for $15.95 (USD) and may be purchased by visiting their website. A free 14-day trail is also available for download.
