San Francisco, CA - WaterField Designs, an innovative leader in custom laptop sleeves and designer bags and cases for consumer electronics, today announces a new, custom-fitted Suede Jacket case for the Nexus One. The minimalist WaterField Suede Jacket(TM) made from scratch-free Ultrasuede(TM) provides a snug but comfortable fit specifically sized for Google's newest smartphone. Through February 28, 2010, WaterField Designs will donate 5% of all Nexus One case sales to the international medical humanitarian organization, Doctors Without Borders, for Haiti earthquake victim relief.

WaterField's Suede Jacket cases are form-fitted to a particular mobile device so each stays snug for better protection. The simple, smart-looking Suede Jacket for the Google Nexus One is made from soft, 100% scratch-free Ultrasuede(TM), which absorbs a bit of shock and protects the phone from scrapes and small, accidental bumps. Simply slide in the Google phone when not in use, and pinch the bottom of the case to easily retrieve it when needed again. The Suede Jacket can double as a screen cleaner and is available with or without a stretch pocket that lies flat when empty.

"If you want a case to protect your new phone without adding bulk and you want to help the people of Haiti with your case purchase, the Suede Jacket will do the trick," explained owner, Gary Waterfield. "Slip your Google phone into the jacket and it stays secure so it doesn't easily fall out, yet you can quickly take the phone out by pushing the bottom so it glides out of the case. You can also put your Nexus One in its Suede Jacket into our newest man bag, the Muzetto - a favorite of Mad Men actor Rich Sommer - or in any other bag you may have."

The Nexus One in its Suede Jacket fits into WaterField's Travel Case - a case to hold the Google Nexus One or other device, a charger and other accessories - or into any one of WaterField's trendy larger bags: the new Muzetto, or the Cargo, Cozmo, Hardcase, Racer-X, Sling or VertiGo.
