Barcelona, Spain - Ivanovich Games today is pleased to introduce iRemoteDog 1.0, their new canine remote control application for iPhone and iPod touch devices. Designed specifically to leverage the iPhone's unique capabilities and interface, iRemoteDog serves to help dog lovers train their pooch. Featuring a comfortable and simple user interface, iRemoteDog contains sounds that are at a frequency only Spot can hear.

Dog lovers control their dog with 12 different commands, directly from his or her device, while their furry canine learns to associate different inaudible tones with a directed movement. Dogs can relate better to these types of multi-commands, rather than just a single human voice alone. Using iRemoteDog 1.0 is simple and straightforward, offers custom skins, and includes a complete tutorial that helps users get the most out of each command. Dogs everywhere are rejoicing.

Feature Highlights:

- * Comfortable and Simple User Interface
- * Inaudible frequencies only dogs can hear
- * 12 different commands provided
- * Complete tutorial for each command
- * Customize the UI with included skins

"The original idea of this app born in spring 2009," said Ivan Cascales, founder and CEO of Barcelona based Ivanovich Games. "Joking with my wife came the idea of a remote control for dogs. The trick of course is finding the correct set of frequencies that dogs can understand. For several months experimented with different types of sounds at different frequencies until we discovered the perfect match. Now our dog quickly learned and our neighbors dogs too."

Device Requirements:

- * iPhone and iPod touch
- * Requires iPhone OS 3.0 or later
- * 3.7 MB

Pricing and Availability:

iRemoteDog 1.0 is $1.99 (USD) and available worldwide exclusively through the App Store in the Utilities category. Review copies are available upon request. There is also a nice YouTube video demonstration available.
