app4mac today released SecretBox for iPhone and iPad, their powerful application that allows you to manage credit card details, SSN numbers, software licenses, e-mail account details, product registration codes and serial numbers. All are easily stored in SecretBox's flexible database. Most people will use SecretBox for personal use, but businesses can also use SecretBox for managing their customers passwords or software licenses. The iPad version can sync the data with the Mac version.

San Jose, California - app4mac today is pleased to announce the release of an iPad version of SecretBox, their powerful application that allows you to manage your secrets (passwords, serial numbers, credit card numbers, etc). The iPad version can sync the data with the Mac version.

You can use SecretBox to store all sorts of information: Credit Card details, SSN numbers, Software Licenses, e-mail account details, product registration codes and serial numbers. All are easily stored in SecretBox's flexible database. Most people will use SecretBox for personal use, but businesses can also use SecretBox for managing their customers passwords or software licenses.

SecretBox uses the industry standard 256-bit AES encryption to protect your data, but that is just the start. SecretBox takes extra care to never decrypt your information unless absolutely necessary. Other competitors encrypt the entire data file in one operation and therefore have to decrypt everything to view just one item. We go to great lengths to protect your data from all sorts of attacks.

Strong security does not have to be inconvenient. SecretBox puts you in control of how you want to organize your data. With unlimited groups and subgroups you can easily organise your secrets in a way that makes sense to you.

About the iPhone / iPad version

SecretBox for iPad and iPhone is an universal binary. It's means that the application will run native on each platform and it will take advantage of the new controls and screen size of the iPad. You can sync your secrets with the Mac version of SecretBox (optional feature).
