

iFinance 2 released - on display at MacWorld San Francisco this January

Published on 01/05/08

Synium Software today announces iFinance 2 to be available as final release. After about a year's development including extensive beta and public beta testing, our popular personal finance tool goes live with many new and improved features: powerful diagramming, currency management, smart import and full Leopard-compatibility. In a couple of days, we will show iFinance 2 at our booth at MacWorld in San Francisco.

IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Mainz, Germany - January 5, 2008 - today, iFinance 2 is released as final commercial product. iFinance 2 is our next generation personal finances manager and has been under development accompanied by extensive beta testing throughout most of 2007.

iFinance 2 offers a set of powerful tools to help users with tedious and reoccurring tasks regarding cash flow management and financial analysis. With built-in diagramming, auto-categorization and smart import of external data, iFinance 2 is the ideal companion for everyday use. iFinance is compatible with the latest release of Mac OS X (10.5 »Leopard«) but also works perfectly under Mac OS X 10.4 (»Tiger«).

To give everyone attending MacWorld San Francisco a chance to check out on this new version, we'll have iFinance on display at our booth within the Dr. Bott area (booth# »1912 L«), between January 14th and 18th, 2008. iFinance 2 - put your money in perspective!
