Austin, TX, January 8, 2008: Intego's ready to roll! With a new generation of Macintosh security products, Intego, the Macintosh security specialist, has great new software to show off at the world's leading Macintosh trade fair, the Macworld Conference and Expo, from January 15-18, 2008. The San Francisco Macworld Conference and Expo is the most exciting and prestigious Macintosh trade fair in the world, a major event where Apple regularly announces new products and unveils its latest innovations.

With more than 40,000 visitors last year, 390 exhibitors, more than 100 speakers and hundreds of media representatives, the entire Macintosh world is present, and Intego will take up residence for four days at booth S2426.

"While all our software has been compatible with Mac OS X 10.5, Leopard, since the day the new operating system was released, we've been working on a new generation of our programs to take advantage of Leopard's new features," said Laurent Marteau, CEO, Intego. "We've got a full line of great new programs to show off at the Macworld Expo 2008, and we're looking forward to seeing the tens of thousands of visitors to the show."

Intego's security experts will be on hand to present and demonstrate new X5 versions of NetBarrier, VirusBarrier, Personal Backup, Personal Antispam, FileGuard and Internet Security Barrier, and will be presenting its other programs, such as ContentBarrier, and its server side solutions, VirusBarrier Server, VirusBarrier Mail Gateway and Remote Management Console.

Intego will also be presenting new versions of its Dual Protection line of software, which provide security features for Mac OS X and Windows. These new DP bundles include the latest software for Windows protection from BitDefender. And Intego will have special offers on its new X5 software available only on the show floor, as well as some exceptional deals on software bundles.
