Published on 08/17/10

Houdah Software today announces that HoudahSpot and HoudahGeo have joined the iAppsForStudents back-to-school sale. All HoudahSpot and HoudahGeo licenses are available at a 20% discount through September 1. More than 50 independent developers are participating in the sale contributing over 100 applications with huge discounts. HoudahSpot is Houdah Software's Spotlight popular front-end and file tagging solution. HoudahGeo is their one-stop photo geocoding application.

Luxembourg - Houdah Software today announces that HoudahSpot (Spotlight front-end and file tagging solution) and HoudahGeo (one-stop photo geocoding) have joined the iAppsForStudents back-to-school sale. All HoudahSpot and HoudahGeo licenses are thus available at a 20% discount through September 1. Coupon codes are available at iAppsForStudents online.

The iAppsForStudents promotion runs from August 15 to September 1. More than 50 developers have joined the sale. Over 100 applications are on sale, totaling over $1300 in savings. Some of the developers participating are: Centrix.ca, Electric Peel Software, Houdah Software, Indev Software, Karelia Software, Rogue Amoeba, and SmileOnMyMac.

The sale is an independent developer community event and is being organized as a joint effort by indie software developers Random Accident and Blue Lightning Labs. All transactions occur on each independent developers website or on the iTunes AppStore (iPhone and iPad apps).

HoudahSpot has recently been updated to version 3.0. Adding to the popular Spotlight front-end and file search tool, HoudahSpot now also operates as file tagging solution. Being based upon OpenMeta technology, the tagging features interoperate with most Mac file tagging tools.

HoudahSpot 3.0 upgrades are priced $5 for a single-user upgrade. Licenses issued on or after January 1, 2010 are entitled to a free upgrade.
