

Learn FileMaker Web Publishing from the Pros

Published on 03/14/07

FMWebschool's new "Learn From the Pros" series will be launched in August at the FileMaker Developer Conference in Orlando. FMWebschool classes are extremely popular, and usually fill 3 months before the event. This year is even more exciting as we will be teaching two classes on the new FileMaker API for PHP. The first class is for complete novices and will progress to an intermediate level, and the second class will be a continuation progressing from an intermediate to advanced level.

"FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE"

Glen Allen, Va – FMWebschool's new "Learn From the Pros" series will be launched in August at the FileMaker Developer Conference in Orlando. FMWebschool classes are extremely popular, and usually fill 3 months before the event. This year is even more exciting as we will be teaching two classes on the new FileMaker API for PHP. The first class is for complete novices and will progress to an intermediate level, and the second class will be a continuation progressing from an intermediate to advanced level. Individuals that register before the class will receive a voucher worth $150.00 off the cost of the class.

Learn From the Pros

Over the past 8 years, FMWebschool has developed over 375 FileMaker driven websites. This wonderful process has given us a fundamental understanding of the FileMaker web development philosophy. We feel that our training classes are a direct reflection of our years of accumulated knowledge that we apply on a daily basis. This is our 4th year of teaching FileMaker PHP classes at Devcon.
