

CAZE announces Zero 8 - World's Thinnest Clear Case for iPad 2

Published on 06/20/11

CAZE today announces the Zero 8, a new addition to its family of iPad cases. The Zero 8 is the world's thinnest clear iPad 2 case, measuring just 0.8 millimeters. The Zero 8 iPad 2 is designed to compliment the Smart Cover and is sleek, slim and form-fitting. You will not even know that it is on. To ensure the back of your iPad 2 receives 360 degree protection, an Edge Sticker is provided for applying on the edge of the iPad 2 before attaching the Smart Cover.

Hong Kong - CAZE, the leader in ultra thin case, announced a new additions to its family of iPad case, Zero 8 (0.8mm), the world's thinnest clear iPad 2 case, measuring just 0.8 millimeters. The Zero 8 (0.8mm) iPad 2 is designed to compliment the Smart Cover and is sleek, slim and form-fitting, you will not even know that it is on. It features a 0.8mm thinness and is made of lightweight, ultra strong and durable GRILAMID(R) TR-90 material.

The case is precisely engineered to fit the iPad 2's new multimedia openings for easy camera, speakerphone and microphone access. To ensure the back of the iPad 2 receives 360 degree protection, an Edge Sticker is provided for applying on the edge of the iPad 2 before attaching the Smart Cover. If you do not use the Smart Cover, Zero 8 and the Edge Sticker alone are enough to completely protect the back of your iPad 2.

Searching for an Apple Smart Cover case that would protect your iPad 2, fits and would retain its slim form and sleek appearance? That's what CAZE Zero 8 (0.8mm) iPad 2 Case does. As the name implies, Zero 8 (0.8mm) is very slim and only has a maximum wall thickness of 0.8mm. Just snap your case in place, and use your Smart Cover as you normally would. As it's so thin, you would barely notice its presence. It is made of GRILAMID(R) TR-90 which is a plastic polymer commonly used in the creation of sport and other impact-resistant eyewear frames.

TR-90-made products are lightweight, remarkably tough, highly flexible, shatterproof and highly resistant to UV damage. Besides its super slim body that measures only 0.8mm in thickness, Zero 8 is durable and offers comprehensive protection to your iPad 2. It has complete access to all the main ports and buttons of your device. Charging has also never been easy since you do not have to remove the case.

Unlike some models, this one extends all the way to the top and bottom edges. Instead of just leaving one large opening over the speaker there is a mesh grating that offers a bit more protection without altering the sound in any way. One noticeable advantage to this model is that the opening for the Smart Cover is narrower, leaving almost no gap between the two accessories. Together with the Edge Sticker, 100% of the iPad's metal back would be protected.

Zero 8 (0.8mm) is a bit raised to protect your screen from further scratches when laid on a flat surface. To ensure all-around protection, the package comes with an Edge Sticker and a front screen protection film for added shield.

If you are or are not using a Smart Cover and want to preserve the original look of your iPad 2 without adding unnecessary bulk and weight., you can pre-order now at their official website and shipping will start on the 23rd of June. Colors obtainable for now are clear, grey, blue and pink. Aside from the almost unnoticeable case, you will get and Edge Sicker, a front screen protector and a microfiber cloth.
