

Marware announces Sportsuit Convertible for iPod nano 4G

Published on 10/06/08

Marware is pleased to announce its latest 3-in-1 case for the iPod nano 4G, the Sportsuit Convertible. The Sportsuit Convertible is our most versatile sport armband case available for the iPod nano. The Convertible is actually three cases in one: it transforms into an easily adjustable armband case, a clip-on case for a belt or shoulder strap, or a slim-profile sleeve for an extra layer of protection in a pocket, gym bag, backpack or purse.

Hollywood, FL - Marware Inc, designer and manufacturer of innovative products for the Apple market, is pleased to announce the Sportsuit Convertible for the iPod nano 4G. The new Sportsuit Convertible is the ideal 3-in-1 case for anyone who desires versatility and a cool look. Resilient lycra protects your iPod while the Orca-skin material provides a comfortable feel.

The new ergonomic design allows you to insert or remove your iPod nano both quickly and easily. The patented Multidapt system gives added versatility, allowing for the use of the included stretchable armband and belt clip, or a variety of car and bike solutions (sold separately). Simply remove the clip or armband and the lycra and Orca-skin material provide a protective, slim sleeve for carrying or placing in a bag. All this, an included key pouch and easy access to all iPod nano 4G functionality truly makes the Convertible 3 cases for the price of one.
