Billings, Montana - Positive Spin Media is pleased to announce BombSquad 3.2, an update to the aqua-licious minesweeper clone for Mac OS X. BombSquad genetically splices the good looks of Mac OS X and its Aqua interface with the popular "Windoze" Minesweeper puzzle/game. Sometimes, this kind of experimentation leads to Frankenstein, other times it leads to explosive game fun: this is a case of the latter.

BombSquad is fantastic freeware for Mac OS X. It thinks different with features like "Crunch Time", "Zap Clicks", and other names unworthy of trademark protection. It also features an online record book and individual preferences for sound, training, and difficulty. Localized into English, French, German, Dutch, Italian, Spanish, and Japanese, you are guaranteed to find some fun in a language that is pretty close to something you understand.

How does this product improve on the original? BombSquad starts with the ingredients that make minesweeper great puzzle fun, and then adds the ability to resize the game board and the grid size to your heart's content. An aqua candy shell makes sure you look good while having fun, and then an online record book and scoring system makes sure you get the recognition you deserve. In short, it's the perfect puzzle game to while away a few spare minutes. The fact that it's free means you can have fun while knowing you didn't break the bank on the way. Try it today!
