Paris, France - Intego, the Macintosh security specialist, today announced that it will be attending i-meeting '08, the OS X Business Conference. Intego will attend this two-day event, held November 17-18 at BMW Welt in Munich, Germany, and will present its full line of Macintosh security software for businesses. This event is a chance for major players in the Macintosh world to meet with European business leaders and demonstrate how the Mac can fit into today's businesses.

"Macs are making more and more inroads into the business world, and our tools help IT managers ensure that their Macs have the same protection as their other computers," said Laurent Marteau, CEO of Intego. "Intego software protects business users from all the dangers of the Internet, and all forms of malware. We have the only product line for Mac that keeps businesses totally safe."

Intego will be presenting its full line of Macintosh security software, and will be highlighting its solutions that protect businesses from the dangers of malware and hackers:

VirusBarrier Server and VirusBarrier Mail Gateway provide total protection from all known Macintosh viruses on computers running Mac OS X Server. These programs allow network administrators to protect their Mac networks from viruses, protecting all files on a server, and providing full protection from viruses that pass through Mac OS X Server's built-in e-mail server.

Remote Management Console allows administrators to create and load settings files, configure individual settings and functions, and make changes to Intego programs on all computers quickly and easily. Settings for these programs can be managed individually or by groups, and administrators can apply the same settings to all users or apply templates with preset configurations to specific users.

VirusBarrier X5 is the acclaimed antivirus for Mac that is simple, fast and non-intrusive. VirusBarrier X5 protects Macs from viruses by examining all files that are read or written, as well as watching for suspicious activity that may be the sign of viruses acting on applications or other files. If the program finds any viruses, it can repair the files immediately, display an alert, or put the files into a quarantine zone. VirusBarrier X5 is also the only antivirus program that can scan files and applications on the iPhone and iPod touch in search of malware or files that indicate that exploits have compromised the devices.
