

Virtual TimeClock 5.5 simplifies Timecard management

Published on 04/27/07

Virtual TimeClock Pro 5.5 is now available for free evaluation. This new release of the leading time and attendance software for Macs features enhanced timecard editing and expanded worker information tracking.

FRESNO, CA - April 27, 2007 - Redcort Software today announced the immediate availability of Virtual TimeClock Pro 5.5, the industry leading time and attendance software for small to medium sized businesses. This new release features two of our most requested enhancements: simplified timecard editing and expanded worker information tracking. The new 5.5 release also contains a number of fixes and changes that improves overall program reliability and usability.

"We've really tried to spoil our customers with ease-of-use" said Keith DeLong, President of Redcort Software. "As a result, our users have not held back in telling us how Virtual TimeClock could be even more useful. By listening to their feedback, we've succeeded in making day to day editing and managing of timecards even easier in Virtual TimeClock Pro 5.5."

"Our users also told us they'd like to track additional worker information in their Virtual TimeClock Pro software" continued DeLong. "So in 5.5, we've added new worker hire and termination date tracking along with the ability to enter and print just about any kind of worker information." Busy business owners and managers can now use Virtual TimeClock Pro to simplify and centralize just about any kind of employee related information, including position descriptions, salary histories, reviews, goals, or even safety training.

Free Evaluation

The fully functional Virtual TimeClock Pro program can be downloaded free anytime at Redcort Software's web site. When Virtual TimeClock Pro is installed without a license key, the software will run for 300 entries without any restrictions. After the evaluation period, a software license and activation key must be purchased to continue using Virtual TimeClock Pro.

Upgrades
