In the digital age, Profolio is an exciting communication and marketing device created by creatives for creatives.

London, United Kingdom - The Operators have launched an innovative iOS App, Profolio for the creative community. A custom built presentation and portfolio service that accommodates visual mediums of print, motion, animation, 3D content and graphic design work in an interactive, engaging and cost effective way.

In the digital age, Profolio is an exciting communication and marketing device created by creatives for creatives, raising brand awareness in an informative manner for a worldwide audience. These dynamic presentation/portfolios encompass cross platform disciplines whether its photography, motion, copy or the arts, in a stimulating experience enriching the viewers understanding of the work.

Profolio is the first synchronisable portfolio app that can allow clients to present on multiple iOS devices from the Premium Master App. Able to seamlessly screen mirror 3 devices via bluetooth or for larger presentations up to 10 iOS devices with a personal wireless router. Even if the client has downloaded the child App via the App store onto their personal device. This can also be control without hassle through your Master App with a click of a button.

Profolio has been developed by London's high-end multi-discipline studio The Operators. Leading the forefront in collaboration and storytelling within the print to digital cross over, Profolio provides a new output process for the investigation and development of storytelling through new emerging technologies and platforms.
