

Bit Maki Software Announces the Release of Textcast

Published on 12/22/08

Bit Maki Software, Inc. is pleased to announce the immediate availability of Textcast, exclusively for Mac OS X Leopard. Textcast turns any text - documents, web pages, or entire blog feeds - into personal podcasts for your iPod or iPhone. Simply add a news feed or copy a text file to the application, and Textcast will automatically create spoken-word audio files and send them to iTunes for upload on your iPod or iPhone.

Chicago, IL - Bit Maki Software, Inc. is pleased to announce the immediate availability of Textcast, exclusively for Mac OS X Leopard. Textcast turns any text - documents, web pages, or entire blog feeds - into personal podcasts for your iPod or iPhone.

Textcast uses Mac OS X Leopard's ultra-high quality voice, Alex, to create podcasts from any text file. Simply add a news feed or copy a text file to the application, and Textcast will automatically create spoken-word audio files and send them to iTunes for upload on your iPod or iPhone. Whether you have a dual-core iMac or an eight-way Mac Pro, Textcast uses the processing power to convert text into speech much faster than real-time reading.

Textcast features:

- * Rapid conversion of text to spoken-word audio files
- * iTunes syncing
- * Easy subscription to and conversion of news feeds
- * Ability to import text from Safari
- * Ability to import text or drag-and-drop feeds from NetNewsWire
- * Ability to convert any text, including e-mail
- * Customizable voices, with a default of Mac OS X Leopard's newest voice, Alex

Minimum Requirements:

- * Mac OS X Version 10.5 Leopard
- * Universal Binary for PowerPC and Intel

Pricing and availability:

Textcast is immediately available for download and purchase for $25 (USD). The full, unrestricted application may be used for seven consecutive or non-consecutive days before registering. To learn more and download a free demo, visit their website.
