Published on 02/28/12

Kerner Applications have released a collection of 'in-your-face' photographs of some of the World's 'big cats', perfectly sized for your iPhone or iPhone Retina display, allowing you to set them as your wallpaper or lock screen image. Featuring lions, tigers, leopards, white tigers and more, the application features an easy to use interface and simple controls, allowing you to find the image you want and save it to your phone.

Newton-le-Willows, United Kingdom - Kerner Applications introduces Big Cats 1.0 and Big Cats HD 1.0 for iOS. Featuring lions, tigers, leopards, white tigers and more, the application features an easy to use interface and simple controls, allowing you to find the image you want and save it to your phone.

"What makes these images stand out is that they are unique and up-close and personal," commented Jason Kerner, Lead Developer at Kerner Applications. The application has already sold well in many countries across the World including Mexico, Italy, Australia, Europe and of course the US. The images are stored locally within the application so data connection is required, so you can change your background whenever you like - "Most wallpaper applications go off to remote servers, so if your signal isn't great, you won't be able to change it, everything is bundled with the application with Big Cats".

The images have all been hand-picked for those that'll look great on the iPhone and iPad, and have been correctly edited to make use of the form factors of both devices. The iPad edition of Big Cats makes it insanely easy to find the image you want and preview it full screen.

Ideal for anyone who appreciates the 'big cats' of the World, this application is for you. With over 50 up-close images, the application is available on the App Store now for just 69p (GBP) / $0.99 (USD) and an iPad version, 'Big Cats HD' is available now, featuring a re-designed interface and portrait and landscape support, and includes images not available in the iPhone version.
