Rovalo Labs has announced the release of Elections Pal 1.0 for iPhone, iPod touch and iPad users. This app lets users conduct a complete election from their device, with no paper and no hassles. Elections Pal is the perfect tool for educators who are teaching students about the election process. By participating in an electronic election in the classroom, students can learn by actually seeing the process in action.

Mexico City, Mexico - Announcing that Francisco Javier Rovalo, the developer of Elections Pal, has just released the latest update for iPhone, iPod touch and iPad users. Elections Pal 1.0 lets users conduct a complete election from their device, with no paper and no hassles. Elections Pal is the perfect tool for educators who are teaching students about the election process. By participating in an electronic election in the classroom, students can learn by actually seeing the process in action.

To set up an election, users just enter the names and photos of their candidates into the app. To vote for their candidate of choice, voters just tap the screen. Users can vote with confidence, knowing that all votes remain anonymous.

Elections Pal 1.0 automatically records the date and time of the election, along with the number of votes received by each candidate. When all votes have been cast, the app automatically tallies and saves the results. For the sake of fairness and transparency, polling results can be emailed to all interested parties right from the app, or saved in the app for future reference.

Election Pal is the perfect tool for teachers, companies, neighborhood associations, or anyone who wants to conduct an election without printing ballots and manually counting votes.
