

AirBeam 1.5 enables HD video surveillance on new iPad's retina display

Published on 04/03/12

Applogics has announced AirBeam 1.5, a major update enabling video surveillance in High Definition 720p quality on the new iPad's high resolution display. AirBeam is an universal app for iOS and OSX that streams live video and audio from the built-in cameras of iPhones, iPads and iPods to other iDevices, Macs or a Web Browser. Beside introducing HD quality, the upgrade also significantly enhances the video quality and frame rate on devices with lower resolution screens.

Eurasburg, Germany - Applogics is pleased to announce the release of AirBeam 1.5, a major feature update to their unique video surveillance solution for iOS. AirBeam is an universal app for iPhones, iPads and iPods that streams live video and audio from the built-in cameras in amazing quality on a WiFi or 3G network. The stream can be watched on other iDevices, Macs or with a standard web browser. AirBeam can run simultaneously on any number of devices, enabling flexible multi-camera and multi-monitor configurations.

AirBeam 1.5 now adds a new option for video streaming in HD 720p quality. Together with the new iPad's high resolution retina display and the high quality camera, this creates a video surveillance experience with a level of detail not seen before.

But not only owners of the new iPad benefit from the upgrade: The new HD video codec significantly improves the video quality and frame rates also on devices with lower resolution screens.
