Published on 05/24/12

ChangHun Lee today is pleased to announce Heroes And Zombies for iOS, a hack and slash action RPG game. In this game, you will try your best to save your hero's world, and your hero will try his best to fulfill your passion for the game. Heroes and Zombies features carefully designed ringer-attacking sensations, the ability to build up your hero to your own liking, such as creating new moves, and even allows you to compete against your friends via Game Center.

Seoul, Korea, Republic Of - Time passes and things change, but there are things that never change.

The time passes by and you grow older, but you still have the undying passion for newer and better games. And you have to save your little iPhone heroes from evil creatures around the world.

You will try your best to save your hero's world, and your hero will try his best to fulfill your passion for the game. But there's one thing in the way: The D-Pad, the ancient artifact that covers half the screen just by its mere existence.

You might already be used to its ugly presence, but I recommend you try the "Heroes and Zombies". Heroes and Zombies will be the newest trend in Action RPG.

Crazy Ringer-Attacking Sensations:

It's carefully designed to give you the best attacking sensations ever! Superb controls combined with special effects will absorb you right into the game.

Your hero attacks and moves to your touches giving you the intuitive sense of control that you'll never experience anywhere else.

Of course you can also build up your hero to your own liking, creating new moves and such. You may even compete against your friends via the Game Center to see whose hero is stronger.

However, the new sense of control and the attacking sensation you get from this game will be enough to satiate your desire for something new.
