

NoteMaster 1.5 for iPhone adds landscape editing and HTML e-mail

Published on 02/10/09

Kabuki Vision has just released NoteMaster, the latest update to their fast-selling productivity app for iPhone and iPod Touch. NoteMaster has made its mark as the only note-taking app that allows text, images, and headers to be placed together in a note. Simple notes can become rich documents containing graphics, photos, and text headers with a simple tap of the screen. Version 1.5 adds support for editing notes in landscape orientation, as well as sending rich HTML e-mail version of notes.

San Diego, California - Kabuki Vision has just released the latest update to their fast-selling productivity app, NoteMaster. NoteMaster has made its mark as the only note-taking app that allows text, images, and headers to be placed together in a note. Simple notes can become rich documents containing graphics, photos, and text headers with a simple tap of the screen.

Version 1.5 makes note editing even more flexible by adding support for landscape orientation while editing or viewing notes. Many people prefer the landscape keyboard for easier typing, and now NoteMaster gives customers the choice of using either orientation by simply rotating the device.

NoteMaster's capabilities have been further complimented by the new ability to send notes as rich HTML e-mails. Now the exact same high-quality notes that can be created with NoteMaster can now be e-mailed with all text, images, and headers intact.

NoteMaster 1.5 Features:

- * Create rich high-quality notes containing text, images, and headers
- * Assign notes to user-created categories
- * Keep notes private by password-protecting any category
- * Share or back-up notes by sending an e-mail version
- * Sort notes by name, date, or category
- * Find notes quickly using full-text search
- * Most interface elements support both landscape and portrait orientation

Requirements:

- * iPhone or iPod Touch
- * Photo features require an iPhone with a built-in camera
- * E-mail feature requires a network connection

Pricing and Availability:

NoteMaster 1.5 is available now on the iTunes App Store for $4.99 (USD).
