Independent developer, Artem Kotov announces Defense zone HD 1.4.8 for iOS. In this battle game users hold defense with turrets against the massive hordes of enemies in different types of landscapes. With every level, users employ new weapons with different firepower, rate of fire, firing range, blast radius and price. This game stands out against others of the same kind due to its crafted interface, finely tuned balance, sensible OpenFeint support and eye-catching graphics.

Chelyabinsk, Russian Federation - Chelyabinsk, Russian Federation - Independent developer, Artem Kotov is pleased to announce Defense zone HD 1.4.8 for iOS. This game stands out against others of the same kind due to its crafted interface, finely tuned balance, sensible OpenFeint support and eye-catching graphics.

During the game you will hold your defense with your turrets against the massive hordes of enemies in different types of landscape. With every level you can use new weapons with different firepower, rate of fire, firing range, blast radius and price.

The important feature of the game is an algorithm of appearance of units and corresponding waves. Waves are automatically generated, each following the preceding complex, since everything is balanced: distance between units, their total health, which makes the game interesting to play both on easy and hard levels. In contrast to many games this one does not allow one super-weapon, only an artful combination of all of them can play that role.

Defense Zone supports OpenFeint that simplifies posting all level results in a consolidated database for further comparing with other players whatever level they play. By the way, quick completion of levels and remaining lives give additional scores. That is why it is always possible to improve the best result.

Before purchasing the full-featured version it is possible to try Defense Zone Lite for free. The Lite version features 2 levels.
