

Automated Workflows releases Blurb Tally 1.0

Published on 03/27/09

Automated Workflows, LLC is pleased to announce the release of Blurb Tally, a writer's utility, designed to help users quickly and easily calculate the number of characters, words, and paragraphs in a blurb of text. Once launched, Blurb Tally hovers above the other windows and applications on a user's Mac. Users can write content directly in Blurb Tally, or simply copy content to the clipboard and paste it in for a quick tally.

Phoenixville, Pennsylvania - Automated Workflows, LLC is pleased to announce the release of Blurb Tally, a writer's utility, designed to help users quickly and easily calculate the number of characters, words, and paragraphs in a blurb of text. Once launched, Blurb Tally hovers above the other windows and applications on a user's Mac. Users can write content directly in Blurb Tally, or simply copy content to the clipboard and paste it in for a quick tally. Possible uses include:

Features Highlights:

- * Generating text for character-limited fields in web forms
- * Identifying the length of articles, documents, blog postings
- * Preparing concise text for use in press releases, legal documents, emails, Excel workbook cells and more
- * Preparing a resume or writing a brief personal biography
- * Preparing lists of search engine keywords
- * Much more

Blurb Tally also provides the ability to quickly toggle your text blurb between uppercase, lowercase, sentence case, and title case. Additional options allow users to eliminate return, tab, and space characters, as well as empty paragraphs, from the total tally. For additional information about Blurb Tally, as well as other workflow products and services, please visit the Automated Workflows, LLC website.
