Los Angeles, California - Nexx Studio's spot the difference game, Photo Spot which currently top the best selling chart in multiple App Store locations around the world with over 60,000 downloads to date is set to be reintroduced with a new update called Photo Spot: Global Challenge.

The new update will include a much anticipated global high score chart feature in addition to the existing local high score listing to increase the challenge of the game. A more complete version of the global high score will also be made available on Nexx Studio's official homepage.

In addition to the major addon, the game will also feature 27 new game images to extend your gameplay to over 125+ possible game levels and the developer promises that at least 50 new images is set to follow in two weeks time. Existing flaws to the game such as the inability to identifying errors that were made when sound mode is disabled have been addressed in this update with an animated display icon.

The developer has also rewritten the random image generator to improve the randomness of the images that you will encounter as well as the overall performance of the game. Images that are deemed not playable by users feedback have also been improved.

Pricing and Availability:

Photo Spot: Global Challenge have been submitted to the App Store for approval and should be made available over the first weekend of April. Existing Photo Spot users will be enjoying a free update to this latest version, meanwhile new users can download the game for just $0.99 for the first 3 days of release, follow by a regular price of $1.99 that was chosen by users on an official poll in Nexx Studio's website.
