

Software Ops Releases French language version of My Eyes Only

Published on 04/14/09

Software Ops today released My Eyes Only 1.7 for iPhone and iPod Touch. With this significant introduction of international language support, Software Ops has taken MEO to the top of the list of iPhone applications that store passwords and other personal identity information utilizing 512 bit encryption technology.

Scottsdale, Arizona - Software Ops shows its strong commitment to Apple's vision of a worldwide iPhone App Store by releasing a French language version of My Eyes Only(tm). Version 1.7 of My Eyes Only (MEO) makes an entry into the international market place by providing a French language version of MEO. With this significant introduction of international language support, Software Ops has taken MEO to the top of the list of iPhone applications that store passwords and other personal identity information utilizing 512 bit encryption technology.

"With the introduction of French language support, MEO offers better international support than most of the biggest names in password protection applications in the iTunes App Store", states Joe Michels, creator of My Eyes Only. "Software Ops is committed to enhancing and improving MEO with feature requests from our worldwide installed customer base. French language support is only the first step in expanding support to our worldwide customers."
