

Grantwood Technology Releases the SmartBack for iPad

Published on 12/18/12

Grantwood Technology introduces the SmartBack for iPad, a protective cover that serves as a companion to the Smart Cover from Apple. The SmartBack for iPad securely holds the Apple Smart Cover in place, protects the back of the iPad and has a final trick in that it keeps the Smart Cover attached to the SmartBack for iPad when fully opened. The SmartBack for iPad is compatible with iPad 2, the new iPad and iPad HD (2nd 3rd and 4th Generation iPads).

Middleburg Hts., Ohio - Grantwood Technology recently introduced the SmartBack for iPad, a protective cover that serves as a companion to the Smart Cover from Apple. The SmartBack preserves all of the functionality of the Smart Cover, while also protecting the back of the iPad from scratches that can occur with normal use, and holding the Smart Cover in place when folded back. The SmartBack allows access to all ports, buttons, and cameras, and is made from a Polycarbonate/ABS blend (PC/ABS), which makes it lightweight yet extremely durable.

"We like the Smart Cover from Apple," says Michael Banks, co-founder of Grantwood Technology, "It just needs a little help. First of all, it offers no protection for the back of the iPad. Secondly, it is rather annoying when the Smart Cover fails to stick to the iPad when folded back. Finally, we want the Smart Cover to stay on the iPad with a more secure attachment as it simply pops off too easily. Our SmartBack for iPad solves all of these issues."

The SmartBack for iPad currently comes in black, with a silver version due in January, 2013, and is compatible with the iPad 2, iPad 3 (the new iPad), and the newly released iPad 4 (the iPad HD). It is available on both the company website and through Amazon. The Apple Smart Cover is sold separately.
