

FusionCharts Free enables flash charts within FileMaker solutions

Published on 06/15/07

FusionCharts team has developed FusionCharts Free for FileMaker. This tool generates dynamic, data-driven charts within FileMaker solutions by few simple steps in Mac and Windows environment.

FusionCharts team has released FusionCharts Free for FileMaker. FusionCharts, which is a cross platform flash charting component, can now be integrated with FileMaker. This product enables FileMaker users develop data-driven and animated flash charts for their FileMaker solutions. Users can create various types of charts like Line chart, Column chart, Pie charts and more advanced charts using this free product.

The product is based on FusionCharts Free platform and as such inherits a lot of features from the same. It is a platform independent product and does not require any external plug-ins to be installed. Flash Player 6 is all that is needed to view the charts. A copy-paste style of installation makes it handy.

FileMaker users do not need to acquire any specific technical knowledge as the product uses the in-built features and functions of FileMaker. By utilizing the Web Viewer object of FileMaker, FusionCharts team has made the chart loading process available offline. It is not mandatory to have access to internet to use this product with FileMaker applications as all the associated files are saved in the users' machine itself.

FusionCharts team has published a detailed documentation elaborating each and every aspect of the product. It has also released an open source blueprint application named as FusionAuto to showcase the best usage practices and to display the potential of their solution.
