Synium Software today released a new version of CleanApp, the popular uninstaller and system management tool. Keep track on how free disk space decreases and why your hard drive gets filled up day by day. CleanApp 3.1 knows which related files to delete when the user drags an application in the trash. Version 3.1 comes with a brand new graphical view displaying disk usage for folders or the whole hard drive. CleanApp 3.1 is a free upgrade for existing customers.

Mainz, Germany - Today, Synium Software has released a new version of CleanApp, the popular uninstaller and system management tool. CleanApp 3.1 comes with a brand new graphical view displaying disk usage for folders or the whole hard drive. Keep track on how free disk space decreases and why your hard drive gets filled up day by day. No need to comb through each folder manually, let CleanApp deliver the results at a glance. It has never been easier knowing whats going on on one's hard drive. Speed up your system by erasing unnecessary files.

CleanApp 3.1 also knows which related files have to be deleted when the user drags an application to the trash. The user doesn't have to start CleanApp manually, CleanApp just throws itself into the breach. If wanted, CleanApp instantly shows all hidden files, preferences or extensions that otherwise would have stayed on one's Mac.

CleanApps's Logging Service has been improved and works even more reliable and consumes less CPU power. Applications can be excluded from being logged privacy reasons and even better performance.

Main features:

- * Graphical View for Disk Usage
- * CleanApp optionally shows and deletes related files when dragging an application to the trash
- * Improved logging
