Glen Allen, Va - June 19, 2007 - FMWebschool, Inc. announced the IWP Export plug-in for FileMaker 7 and 8. This powerful new plug-in enables you to export data from your Instant Web Publishing site and save it as a CSV file. IWP Export also enables you to save backup copies of specific found sets directly into container fields.

Powerful plug-in makes IWP an even more viable solution!

The Problem:

A visitor to your site searches through your product catalog and finds 50 items in which they are interested. They simply want to save those records to a document for reference or to enter the found set into a spreadsheet. Impossible! There was no way for that customer to get that information. There was no simple way to get this information to the customer.

Anyone working with FileMaker and Instant Web Publishing would tell you that exporting records from the web was not an option; it was not a web-supported script. Visitors to your website were simply out of luck.

The Solution:

IWP Export completely alleviates this problem with power and speed. IWP Export is a FileMaker plug-in that allows the export of a found set from within FileMaker or FileMaker Server running IWP.

It's extremely simple. A visitor to your site searches through the contents of your website. Once they have generated a found set of records, they select a 'save as' button, and they are presented with a download link. They click on the link, and they can automatically save that document to their computer. It's as simple as that.

IWP export can be integrated quickly and easily with any IWP website and it works flawlessly on both Windows and Macintosh platforms.
