Murfreesboro, Tennessee Pubblog today is pleased to announce the release of MailSteward, MailSteward Lite, and MailSteward Pro, version 10.0. MailSteward can now search for multiple strings in the same field. Version 10.0 also includes a number of other enhancements and new features, which are detailed at the MailSteward web site.

MailSteward is the ultimate email archiving solution for the Mac. MailSteward archives email in a relational database for easy access and safe backup of all your email. Whether you manage a business, are an independent professional, or just a person with a lot of email, for legal reasons, business reasons, and personal reasons, it is essential to be able to safely archive and easily search your email.

- * Safely archive your large volume of vital email information
- * Easily access your email database with fast, sophisticated searching
- * Protect your essential email data from data format obsolescence
- * Get rid of duplicate emails
- * Tag email with category, keywords, notes, and priority

MailSteward will archive all of your email in a database for easy retrieval. Click on the Archive button and MailSteward will go to work storing copies of all your email text, HTML, attachments, and raw source, into a relational database. MailSteward has a wealth of features for importing, tagging, saving, and exporting, including the ability to export your vital email information in a number of standard data formats.
