

The Escapers release Flux 2 Public Beta - Web Design Application

Published on 05/05/09

The Escapers today are proud to release Flux 2 to the public, marking the end of development of Flux 1.x and the beginning of a new phase of development for the flagship Flux web design application. Flux 2 is the culmination of a huge amount of user feedback and contribution and this release marks the start of a new chapter of development. Flux 2 incorporates a wealth of changes in every aspect of the application from rendering, to publishing to code editing.

London, United Kingdom - The Escapers today are proud to release Flux 2 to the public, marking the end of development of Flux 1.x and the beginning of a new phase of development for the flagship Flux web design application. Flux 2 incorporates a wealth of changes in every aspect of the application from rendering, to publishing to code editing. No element of Flux has gone unchanged and Flux 2 represents the most important release in The Escapers history.

Flux 2 development focused on a many different areas and resolves many of Flux 1's shortcomings such as:

- * Vastly improved rendering, not only is it faster, it's also now 100% accurate
- * Importing of existing sites is now a major strength of Flux 2
- * Many more advanced CSS and and XHTML features can be achieved through the GUI, and not text editing
- * Packages, Plugins, Template and Layouts all contribute to making it far easier and quicker to get started with Flux

The Escapers feel that is is very important to get all Flux users using Flux 2 as quickly as possible, not only so they can see the improvements, but also benefit from ongoing development. It is for this reason, that all Flux customers can upgrade for free to Flux 2, regardless of when or how they bought Flux 1.

Flux 2 is a new and clean codebase for the application, and makes new developments easier and quicker, meaning that improvements and consequently new releases will happen much faster in the future. The Escapers wishes to thank all testers and contributors for all their hard work and feedback on Flux 2 and looks forward to many more months and years of working on Flux.
