New York, New York - Instantly create movies featuring photos and videos in dazzling collages with the latest update to Clinch 1.7 on iOS. Redesigned with a sleek, minimalist layout, Clinch automatically turns the photos and videos on users' mobile device, Twitter, and Instagram accounts into stunning movies. Those who want a more collaborative experience can mix in and edit videos and photos from friends. Whether a family vacation, an epic bachelors party, or a music festival with friends, people can instantly capture, combine, and clinch life's moments.

Today's world is saturated with experiences and events that are regularly recorded and shared across multiple platforms. Clinch is a completely new way for anyone to personalize their storytelling, allowing users to easily create amazing, immersive film shorts by capturing photos and videos, selecting their favorite clips, and clinching their project. Applying a unique algorithm, the app filters, automatically analyzes, and edits selected content using innovative video and audio processing including object, scene, and facial detection. In seconds, users have a professionally edited, collaborative, multi-angle video that they can enjoy privately or broadcast across social networks.

"The latest update to Clinch as a brilliant revamp to our cutting-edge app," states Oz Etzioni, CEO and Co-Founder of Clinch Ltd. " We are living a reality in which everything is documented with mobile devices and so much content is at your fingertips. Clinch lets users choose their favorite photos and videos from any life experience and then automatically edits it for you, hassle free. We can't wait for our users to dive into the update and begin capturing, combining, and clinching their lives!"
