Orlando, Florida - ProductionHUB, the world's largest community search site for film, television, video, live event and digital media production, announced the launch of the site's new features which were displayed at the National Association of Broadcasters Show (NAB). ProductionHUB connects production industry professionals with products and services across the globe - every day, online. Boosting visibility for thousands of companies and individuals each year, ProductionHUB has consistently evolved to meet the needs of the changing Internet landscape and the expectations of its users since inception ten years ago.

"We are always working on the Web site to improve our services for the convenience of our steadily increasing user base," said John Pokorny, Founder and President of ProductionHUB. "The site has become an industry standard over the past ten years and with that success comes a certain responsibility. We simply don't want to let our users down. So we develop, listen to their feedback, and then develop some more."

Some 6.1 highlights include:

* Industry Videos: This new section has been added to the Web site so users can post and share their work online - highlighting demo reels, trailers, commercials, animation, vfx, corporate videos and more. Also, keep an eye out for videos from the 2009 NAB Show on ProductionHUBTV, a new channel for original content.

* ProductionHUB Profiles: Directory listings have matured from stagnant data contact information to multimedia profiles. In addition, anyone accessing your profile will now see all of your ProductionHUB content, such as job, classifieds, event postings, and news.

* "My ProductionHUB": Content Management interface to control all of your ProductionHUB content. Users can now easily edit/manage all of their account information, from one place.

Whether you are an industry professional trying to find work, a company trying to procure equipment, or a manufacturer trying to brand a new device, you don't need to look further than ProductionHUB. With this new release, ProductionHUB 6.1 continues to lead as the online resource for all of your production needs.
