Boulder, Colorado - Wavefront International today released Global Impact 1.0, their world-view fact comparison utility for iPhone and iPod touch. Specifically developed to take advantage of the iPhone's unique capabilities and interface, Global Impact features dramatic worldwide facts, all presented in five different time perspectives. The user simply clicks on Year, Month, Week, Day or Now button, and the facts are presented in chart and number form for easy comparisons.

One of Global Impact's most prolific features is its ability to quickly make world-view comparisons. What is the world oil production versus that of natural gas production? How does that compare to tobacco production? How many spam emails are sent versus genuine emails? Is this a problem? Do more people die from cancer or cardiovascular disease? How do they rank compared to say, traffic accident deaths?

- * And More

Perfect for social setting or group functions alike, Global Impact is simple, easy to read and understand. Whether the user prefers charts or numbers, both are presented and updated over ten times a second. The application sports visually appealing and dynamic charts for each category. View bar graphs to easily observe which numbers have the greatest impact and magnitude of global change. Users may quickly change categories by simply swiping the screen in either direction. Global Impact includes a handy quick start guide, and links are provided for more resources and information on topics of interest.
