Tampa, Florida - Independent app developer Happi Papi achieved another milestone this week when its latest iPad learning game Happi & The Pirates 1.0.1 was awarded The Editor's Choice Award by the reputable Children's Technology Review. The Editor's Choice Award is given only to the highest quality children's products in the interactive media category.

Happi & The Pirates is a spelling, math and puzzle brain game for kids where players have to solve a wide range of spelling and logic puzzles to uncover a hidden treasure. The app was featured by Apple in the US and many other App Stores around the world directly on its release date. In its first month the app has reached top 10 in most App Stores and even claimed the coveted #1 spot in education conscious Sweden where Happi Papi has a strong following.

In addition to being a digital treasure hunt centered around spelling and deductive reasoning, Happi & The Pirates also include a real life treasure. All players who manage to complete this challenging game and open the game's treasure chest have a chance to win an iPad Mini.

"The game is super fun and quite addictive and the odds of winning an iPad Mini is better than winning anything at the lottery," says Happi Papi co-founder Patrick Larson.
