MacEase Software is pleased to announce that many highly regarded Mac developers, along with others in the Mac community, have voiced their support for TheMacBundles.com's innovative marketing model that creates a win-win situation both for developers and for users. Users get the best software at the best prices and developers receive an equitable share of the proceeds from the sale of their software. Quotes from some well-known people in the Mac community have been posted to TheMacBundles.com.

Berkeley, CA - MacEase Software is pleased to announce that it has added to TheMacBundles.com comments from numerous highly regarded members of the Mac community.

MacEase Software and Kagi have worked together to present a new model for marketing software which provides users with the best software at the best prices and assures developers that they will receive an equitable share of the proceeds generated by the sale of their software.

By creating a very efficient business model that significantly reduces overhead and eliminates the middlemen, TheMacBundles.com is able to offer the best software at the best prices. This represents a true win-win situation both for consumers and for developers because the savings are passed on to consumers in the form of lower prices and almost all of the proceeds from the sales are distributed to the participating developers.

In these challenging economic times, it's more important than ever that consumers get the best bang for their buck, and TheMacBundles.com provides this while also ensuring that developers receive the support that they need to maintain development of existing programs and invest in development of innovative new software.

Further, TheMacBundles.com offers only top notch software in its bundles from developers that also have demonstrated a commitment to top quality customer service and technical support.
