Rockville, Maryland - Red Mage is proud to announce its premier app for iPhone, Instabrowser. Instabrowser turns any webpage into a mobile webpage. It's lightning fast, cuts down on data usage, and makes unusable webpages readable again.

Instabrowser was designed to let you Read-it-Now by downloading just the HTML content of the webpage - like text and images. By not downloading & rendering stylesheets or running javascript, it can reduce data usage by up to 90%. You can optionally turn images off for even less data usage. Instabrowser works great on slow connections and older devices.

Not only does Instabrowser make web browsing faster by reducing the amount you have to download - it also has a revolutionary parsing engine that lets it render webpages in milliseconds - ten times faster than even the built-in browser.

Instabrowser is designed by a reader, for readers. Text appears in a beautiful, single-column format, and you can change the spacing and font size to whatever is best for you. You'll be able to browse the web, even if you left your glasses at home.

Instabrowser features a truly "revolutionary" 3D interface - swipe back and forth to rotate the entire screen around, revealing the Bookmarks or the Table of Contents. Table of Contents is a unique feature that builds a list of headers in a webpage, letting you quickly jump to items of interest, like new article names or section headers.

While Instabrowser's features are great, perhaps it is best summarized by some of its beta testers:

"I was riding the tube in London and had a slow connection. Safari refused to load webpages - but Instabrowser worked." - Jay Tamboli

"I was trying to read an article on my phone this morning, and the site had an awful mobile treatment. So I cranked up Instabrowser, and all my problems were solved." - Jonathan Cronin

"I was amazed how the rendering is better than with all the other mobilisers like Google's or Instapaper. You can see all the content while not having to scroll around." - Lukas Funk
