Orlando, Florida - Independent software developer Danilo Campos today is proud to introduce GlobeJot 1.0, his new travel organizer for iPhone and iPod touch. Designed from the ground up to leverage the iPhone's unique capabilities and interface, GlobeJot is the premier tool for keeping track of flight data, reservations, activities, and checklists for the busy globetrotter. Traveling is a fluid experience. The travel organizer should be too.

GlobeJot lets users make a list of all the things they want to enjoy on their trip, sortable by name, priority or cost. They can do just the stuff they feel like doing and mark activities as done or skipped to keep the freshest items at the top of their list.

"I'm not at all organized when I travel" said Campos. "For me, going to the airport means having a dozen different scraps of paper scribbled with random bits of information that I'll need for my trip. Inevitably, I lose whichever scrap of data is most important for me to know at any given time. I built GlobeJot because travelers deserve a better way."

Feature Highlights:

- * Customizable Dashboard
- * Effortlessly keep track of flight data, reservations, activities, and checklists
- * Call Airlines or Hotels with one-tap phone dialing
- * Direct support for Triplt; import flights, reservations and activities
- * Email flight confirmations and reservations to Triplt for fast, easy import into GlobeJot

GlobeJot's whole interface focuses on a single trip, presenting the user with only the most pertinent information at all times. Users can store multiple trips and effortlessly switch between them to view and edit travel details. GlobeJot's customizable dashboard pays homage to the experience of managing travel details in a paper journal. Users can arrange their dashboard items in any order they wish and when no longer needed, clear them with just one tap. All other data can be accessed through GlobeJot's tab bar.

GlobeJot stores addresses or coordinates for one-tap viewing in the Maps application. Users can easily call their airlines or hotels with one-tap phone dialing for flights and reservations (iPhone only). Lots of data to import? No problem. Among GlobeJot's prolific features is its direct support for Triplt. Users can easily import flights, reservations and activities from Triplt, sparing them the hassle of inputting them by hand. Email flight confirmations and reservations to Triplt and the service will generate an importable online itinerary.
