

Flow Studio's Leap Motion Enabled Apps Midnight Out Now

Published on 07/23/13

Independent developer, Flow Studio today introduces Midnight, their second Leap Motion controlled application for Mac OS X and Windows. Midnight is a beautiful and responsive interactive particle visualizer that puts a laser light show at your fingertips. Hover your fingers above the Leap Motion Controller to send bursts of light across the midnight sky. Particle shapes, colors, and movements animate and react differently based on the number of fingers you use.

Prague, Czech Republic - Independent developer, Flow Studio is announcing release of second Leap Motion controlled application Midnight. An interactive particle visualizer that puts a laser light show at your fingertips is available for PC and Mac today.

Midnight is a beautiful and responsive particle system that you can control with your hand and fingers in a very natural way. Hover your fingers above the Leap Motion Controller to send bursts of light across the midnight sky. Particle shapes, colors, and movements animate and react differently based on the number of fingers you use. You can even freeze the motion and rotate the mass of light in three dimensions.

Jan Ilavsky, the app's creator, explains his vision: "Midnight is the kind of outer space escape that leaves you feeling calm and powerful. If you're looking for a Zen-like reprieve, Midnight certainly gets the job done." This sublime user experience is supported with gentle piano music and subtle sound effects.

Interactions:

- * One Finger - Stars Scatter in All Directions
- * Two Fingers - Stars Rotate Around the Center
- * Three Fingers - Two Rotating Spherical Masses
- * Four Fingers - Rotating 3D Energy Cube
- * Five Fingers - Hand Controlled Bullet Time

Features:

- * Stunning 3D visuals created with your fingers
- * Interactive ambient music reflecting your movements
- * Capture and share your artwork with friends

Midnight sells for $1.99 (USD) for PC and Mac. Minimum requirements are Windows 7 or Mac OS X 10.6, i3 2GHz, a graphics card with DirectX 9 or higher, 2GB of RAM, and 60MB HDD space.

Flow Studio is an independent team based in Prague's TechSquare. Richard Horin and Petr Fodor founded the studio in 2011 so they could lose themselves in the flow experience of making games - a feeling of immersion, energized focus, and prolonged enjoyment that they hope to pass along to players. Flow's first iOS game, Power of Logic, has had 2M downloads, earned a 4.5-star user rating among App Store users, and received the FWA's prestigious Mobile of the Day award.
