

Flash Decompiler 4.0 released - Offers Flex Files Support

Published on 06/11/09

Eltima Software has released Flash Decompiler Trillix 4.0 for Mac OS X. Flash Decompiler Trillix is a powerful SWF to FLA converter that will help you decompile Flash movies and convert SWF elements into multiple formats. Version 4.0 offers Flex files support, a completely renovated design and advanced functionality. Flash professionals, web-programmers, web-designers or common Mac users will experience a totally redesigned, improved and refurbished version of Flash Decompiler Trillix.

Bellevue, USA - Being the leading tool for Flash decompilation on the Mac market, Flash Decompiler Trillix received multiple feedbacks from users: numerous positive comments from clients and editors and a lot of awards from different offline and online software catalogues. Flash Decompiler Trillix enjoyed tremendous success and Eltima Software has been working hard to make it even more fast, more user-friendly and more advanced. Today we are glad to present Flash Decompiler Trillix 4.0 - with Adobe Flex files support, SWF files preview and new bright and very functional interface.

Our specialists have done much to improve Flash Decompiler Trillix and these are not mere words. Now With Flash Decompiler for Mac OS X you can easily convert any SWF file back into its FLA or Flex source code. Flash Decompiler lets you extract all SWF objects from the file (images, sounds, videos, shapes, morphs, fonts, texts, sprites, etc) and save them in various formats. We added possibility to choose resources to extract and process several files simultaneously. Flash Decompiler Trillix provides the opportunity to export ActionScripts, which can be searched through later.

Completely renovated design will astonish you with extremely useful and logical architecture. New interface provides you with easy navigation and preview options for SWF files and their elements. We tried to make application's interface more handy, understandable and usable.

We are glad to inform, that according to our Upgrade Policy all registered users can purchase the new version with 50% discount. If you have purchased a license within a grace period (i.e. one month) before new major version release, Eltima Software is ready to give you free upgrade. Let us know your order ID (Ref Number) to get the new license.
