

Effing Weather App Makes Mobile Phone Users Laugh Even When Its Raining

Published on 09/13/13

Colorado based independent developer, Kevin Blakeley today announces Effing Weather 2.4, an update to his fun-to-use weather app developed for iOS devices. Effing Weather provides something that no other weather app has: a sense of humor. The app gives you quality data, mixed with witty remarks, sarcasm, and just plain funny responses. Version 2.4 introduces new free phrases, better accuracy, new in-app purchases, with the ability for users to submit their own phrases.

Colorado Springs, Colorado - Independent developer, Kevin Blakeley today is proud to announce the release of Effing Weather 2.4, an update to his fun-to-use weather app developed for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch devices. Effing Weather provides something that no other weather app has: a sense of humor. The app gives you quality data, mixed with witty remarks, sarcasm, and just plain funny responses. The app is also easy as heck to use and its social features make sharing funny moments a breeze.

"It's So Fricking Perfect, I Want To Play Hookie, says a new weather app that will make people laugh"

290 reviews with a 4.5+ average rating.

If you are bored of reading the same old weather forecast where you are told it is going to be sunny or rainy today then a new weather app is going to make a change to that. Effing weather which was launched in January of 2013 makes fun of the weather. Instead of telling you it is warm or cold outside, this fun weather app comes out with funny remarks about the weather which includes:

" Who effing cares what the weather is, you're working today"
" Are you Effing kidding me? It's how cold?"
" It's a little effing cold, if you wanna be a wuss about it"

The developer wanted to cheer people up no matter what the weather is and by the huge success of the application, it is working. Some of the positive feedback for the application include:

" Bout time someone came up with something like this"
" Best weather app I've ever seen!! So hilarious and fun and TRUE!"

Cult of Mac says "Amazing, and pretty much all that needs to be said. Like a Big Mouth Billy Bass, you will either love this app or hate it."

In2town Lifestyle Magazine have called the Effing Weather App one of the funniest apps available for download.

The features of the novelty application which is taking the world by storm includes:

- * Current weather conditions based on your current location
- * Weather Underground is our weather provider
- * Includes 100 Weather phrases to describe the current weather conditions
- * The user also has the option to display the more vulgar expression, such as "It's Fucking Cold"
- * Users can also share the current weather conditions with their friends on their favorite social network.
- * Before sharing the current conditions, the user can also take a picture of the current conditions and set that as the background of the app. This is helpful for when the user
