

Apple's FileMaker partners with Multishoring.info

Published on 10/18/13

Apple's FileMaker, the leader in easy-to-use database software, has partnered with Polish near-shore development provider, Multishoring.info to grow its developer community and meet increasing demand for its renowned custom business solutions. The services will be available to both FileMaker Business Alliance members who require additional cost-effective developers and directly to FileMaker customers.

Warsaw, Poland - Multishoring.info will offer custom business solutions built using the FileMaker platform in a nearshoring and offshoring model. The services will be available to both FileMaker Business Alliance members who require additional cost-effective developers and directly to FileMaker customers.

Tony Speakman, Director, Northern Europe, FileMaker, comments: "The explosion in mobile and tablet use has created an unprecedented demand for business apps. The FileMaker platform is at the forefront of that boom, and, consequently, the increasing demand for FileMaker developers has begun to put considerable strain on our FileMaker Business Alliance partners."

"We're glad to be working with a partner that's able to offer development services both in support of our FBA partners and directly to clients in the UK and Poland."

Andrzej Biesiekirski, CEO at Multishoring.info, comments: "We are very excited to be working with FileMaker. Millions of users, from individuals to some of the world's largest companies, rely on FileMaker software to manage, analyse and share important information.

"We're proud that our developers can be of assistance to them and their customers in a cost-effective, nearshoring way."
