

XtraLean Announces Participation in TheMacBundles - Great Mac Bargains

Published on 07/02/09

XtraLean Software is pleased to announce its participation in TheMacBundles, a unique bundle offering for Mac users, that combines the resources of developers and gives users a 80% savings on quality software. XtraLean is offering the latest version of its website creation tool, ShutterBug Version 2.5.1, as part of the bundle. ShutterBug is an easy-to-use website creation tool for both beginners and advanced users, offering easy to use content building and design tools.

Kitchener, ON, Canada - ShutterBug joins ten other high-quality software titles for Mac OS X in this cooperative bundling effort that is running for three weeks. TheMacBundles is an innovative model created and run by long-time Mac developer, Stephen Becker, for the benefit of consumers and developers alike. This diverse bundle offers eleven software titles for one low price of $49.95 USD and is available immediately from TheMacBundles website.

XtraLean is happy to be a part of any event that introduces and exposes shareware to new users, while bringing buyers and developers closer together. TheMacBundles sets itself apart from other bundle offerings by connecting developers directly to consumers through a unique marketing model that involves the collective efforts of the participating developers, resulting in a diverse offering of great software at bargain prices.

With the exception of small order processing fees and administrative costs, the proceeds from the sale are distributed equally among participating developers. The savings realized by this business model is passed on to the customer. Buyers receive quality software titles, from developers with a proven track record of providing outstanding customer support, for one low price that is hard to beat.

All customers of the bundle receive the latest version of the participating software titles, and are entitled to the same level of customer support and upgrade paths that apply to users who paid the full retail price for the software. The bundle includes the following eleven titles for Mac OS X: Caboodle, Dock Gone, IPNetMonitorX, MailTags, PrintMagic, ShutterBug, Smart Trash, Trampoline, Typinator, Voila, and World Clock Deluxe.

ShutterBug is an easy-to-use website creation tool for both beginners and advanced users, offering simple and unique photo gallery displays and easy to use filter controls, to advanced full-featured sites including shopping carts, contact forms, special visual effects for images, easy to use content building and design tools, as well as over 80 fully-customizable themes available for free to registered users.

Other participating titles in TheMacBundles offer users a diverse package, giving customers an array of useful tools from storage and organization programs to system utility tools. Trial versions of the participating titles are available for users to try before they buy.

Users can try the full-featured demo of ShutterBug for free before they buy. For a limited time, users can purchase a ShutterBug registration number at a rock bottom price through TheMacBundles website or purchase a registration number for regular price $39.95 CAD from XtraLean's website.

ShutterBug V2.5.1 requires Mac OS X 10.3.9 or better and is a Universal Binary for both Intel-based Mac and Power PC support. ShutterBug supports .Mac accounts, WebDAV hosts, FTP/SFTP, and Export to a Folder. To learn more about ShutterBug, please visit XtraLean's
