

City Birds Game Offered for Free During Thanksgiving

Published on 11/27/13

Chunky Apps is announcing a special offer for this upcoming Turkey Day that is certainly something to squawk about. City Birds, its new dynamic arcade style game, will be offered for free on November 27, 28, and 29 in the App Store. A definite attention grabber for kids and adults alike, players will save the birds and keep them from danger by collecting them so they can later be sent to the Wildlife Preserve. The game features sharp, comic-style graphics and fun cartoon themed sounds.

Long Beach, New York - City Birds, the new game released by Chunky Apps, is announcing a special offer for this upcoming Turkey Day that is certainly something to squawk about. The iOS game will be offered for free on November 27, 28, and 29 in the App Store. This terrific offer is coming to you even before all the big Black Friday deals hit.

For those who still have yet to play the arcade-style game, this is a great opportunity to get on board. Featuring graphics made in the colorful comic style as well as cartoon-like sound effects, the app is a definite attention grabber for kids and adults alike. In fact, the game is perfect for family bonding time while everyone is cooped up in the living room waiting for the turkey to be carved. Even more fun for gamers, Chunky Apps has added a few new features. City Birds will include more unlockable birds, the introduction of a new Holiday Bird and a refresh to the coin doubler.

The game is available for iPhones, iPads, and the iPod touch and its popularity is already taking over the gaming sections of these devices. Just released in mid-October, the game is already ruffling feathers in the apps stores and has an impressive following on its Facebook page which offered users sneak peeks of the game.

Behind all of the colorful graphics and fun effects, the premise of the game is simple: to save the birds and keep them from danger by collecting them so they can later be sent to the Wildlife Preserve. In an ironic twist, the aim is to put the birds in cages to later ensure their safe flight to the preserve. The game includes nine different winged characters that need saving so players need to target all varieties. Tricky obstacles confront the players all steps of the way, making the seemingly simple goal more and more difficult as the game goes on.

Players of the game hoping to save their feathery friends will encounter such challenges as TNT-filled balloons, dive-bombing eggs, and jetpack-wearing birds that will do anything to avoid being caged. Users will soon realize that the plucky creatures are anything but easy to catch.

Don't be too quick to rule out City Birds as another mindless app, however. The developer, Noah Malewicz, describes the game as a complex work of art that is as entertaining as it is stimulating. Putting birds in cages may seem a basic task, but the game actually requires full concentration and quick reaction time.

As people will be flocking to huge retailers to commence their holiday season shopping, Chunky Apps is flying ahead of the rest in offering their game for free for the Thanksgiving holiday. The Thanksgiving bargains are coming early for City Birds, with the game available at no cost from Wednesday, November 27 through Friday, November 29.

In between generous helpings of mashed potatoes, stuffing, and pumpkin pie, check out the new City Birds app. Chunky Apps no longer thinks turkey should be the only bird you associate with Thanksgiving. City Birds is an innovative new game that is sure to rule the roost this upcoming holiday season, so why not start it off with this free offer?
