

New sleep sounds app drifts into the App Store with great results

Published on 12/06/13

UK based app developer, Rory Buckley has announced the recent release of Sleep Sounds (Relaxing White Noise and Ambient Music) for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch. The Sleep Sounds app contains a variety of ambient nature sounds and gentle background music to help aid sleep and general relaxation. The sounds can be played individually or mixed together to allow the user to create their very own ambient sound experience. So far, the free app has achieved many high chart positions around the globe.

Devon, United Kingdom - App developer Rory Buckley is proud to announce the release of Sleep Sounds (Relaxing White Noise and Ambient Music) for iOS devices. The app contains a variety of nature sounds & ambient background music to help promote sleep aid and general relaxation. The sounds and music can either be played individually or mixed together, allowing the user to create their own custom relaxation experience.

The Sleep Sounds app has been developed with a clear and simple user interface, allowing the user to ease into their relaxation experience without any unnecessary actions. The nature sounds vary from ocean noise to gentle rain, with the added option of relaxing background music, such as piano or zen. Altogether the free version comes with 12 sounds, with an in-app purchase option to upgrade to unlock an additional 12.

With the app appealing towards users looking for general calming, help with sleeping or meditation etc, Rory Buckley felt it completely necessary to build a sleep timer function into the app. This feature comes with a large selection of preset times that can be set and activated with a single touch. Once the sleep timer fires, the app will turn off all playing sounds, allowing the users device to enter standby mode (saving much needed energy consumption). The app also allows the user to multitask, enabling the user to do other tasks (email, safari, use other apps etc) while the sounds are playing.

Since its very recent release, the Sleep Sounds app has had much success all around the globe, already topping many category top chart positions in a few countries. Rory Buckley is delighted with the success achieved by his new product so far, he has many big plans for the app over the next few months.
