Litchfield Park, Arizona - Retina-X Studios, LLC, the creators of the first spy software for the iPhone, announced today the immediate availability of Mobile Spy version 3.0 for the Apple iPhone 3GS. No other spy software is currently compatible with the iPhone 3GS, Users can silently track GPS locations, SMS messages and calls of children or employees inside a secure online control panel.

Mobile Spy runs in total stealth mode and no mentions of the program are shown on the iPhone 3GS. The software runs in the background behind all other applications. After the software is setup on the phone, it silently records the entire text of all SMS text messages, information about each call and actual GPS positions.

Immediately after activities are logged, they are silently uploaded to the user's secure online account. Accounts can be securely checked online from any web browser without needing further access to the phone. Activity logs are viewable in real time immediately after they are recorded including complete texts and maps of GPS positions.

Retina-X Studios CEO James Johns states "The popular 3GS device can now be monitored with ease. With reports of over one million 3GS devices sold in the first three days of launch, the device is very new and popular. Some users have a need to monitor activities of their child or employees. This is only possible with Mobile Spy."

Mobile Spy user Derrick Thalem had the following to say about the product. "Mobile Spy is a priceless piece of software. After having some doubts about honesty, this really helped set the record straight and confirmed my suspicions."

This exclusive system helps businesses enforce their Acceptable Use and Vehicle Policies on company provided phones. The software can also monitor teen or family phones. It gives a parent the ability to remotely monitor their child's texting activities. As described on CNN, police also use the software to catch child predators. Another common use is to backup a user's own cell activity as a record of all important text conversations and travels.

Mobile Spy runs on all iPhone models and smartphones running the Windows Mobile or Symbian OS operating system. This includes Windows Mobile 2003, 2003 SE, 5.0 and 6.0 and Symbian OS 9.x which are available from most major mobile carriers.
