Paris, France - Deadpan Dodo is proud to announce today the release of a new free trivia game called TV Series Characters PopArt Quiz, where the goal is to recognize the names of the TV series characters in their portraits pop art drawings. The game is available on all iOS and Android devices, including the Kindle family.

"TV Series Characters PopArt Quiz has been designed to appeal to players of all ages. Although each drawing is very colorful and drawn in a very unique style, the game is easy to follow, and no timer is involved." said one of the creators.

The TV series characters have been picked from the most recent TV series like House M.D., Breaking Bad, Lost, House of Cards, Game of Thrones to the oldest ones like MacGyver, Star Trek, That '70s Show, Friends, or even Diff'rent Strokes, and are organized in a total of 7 levels, ranging from easy to difficult. Two tips (the name of the TV serie and the real name of the actor) and a letter-by-letter button provide help to the user if he can't recognize the faces.

"When we first came up with the idea of TV Series Characters PopArt Quiz we knew it had very strong potential in the quiz games world. Though it is a simple face trivia game, it requires players to have a vast cultural knowledge in TV series and to be able to recognize key facial elements. We hand-picked 315 TV series characters to challenge even our most talented users and allow users to play for hours," commented Dimitri Delattre, CEO of Deadpan Dodo.
