

Spense, Expense Tracker for iPhone, Adds Notes and Photos to Spense Plus

Published on 02/14/14

Irinhawk, LLC releases Spense 1.2, an update to their popular financial app for iOS. Spense is money, simplified. You don't have to make a complicated budget; just set a spending target & easily track it using Spense. No receipts to carry around & you know instantly how much you have left to spend. With Spense Plus, your transactions are instantly saved using its secure cloud sync technology. Now you can add a note or photo to any transaction. It's an expense tracker you actually want to use.

Clemmons, North Carolina - Irinhawk, LLC is proud to announce the release of Spense 1.2, an update to their popular financial app developed for iPhone, iPad and iPod touch. Spense is an easy, quick, and simple way to keep a journal of your day-to-day spending. Set a spending target and a repeat cycle, and each transaction you enter is immediately deducted from your balance.

This app is not complicated. It won't link to your bank accounts or allow you to pay your bills. It is a simple, easy way to keep up with your daily spending without having to carry around loads of receipts. With a few steps, you can see where your money is going each month. Now, with Spense Plus, you can document where your purchase was made, or for what occasion. Take a photo of your receipt, purchase, store, etc. All of your notes and photos will be easily accessible in your end of cycle email.

"The reason this app works is because it is so simple. There is no need to come up with a complicated budget. By tracking what you spend, you see where you can save," says developer Craig Coleman.

Get the most out of Spense by upgrading to Spense Plus. Features available only with Spense Plus include the ability to add notes and photos to any transaction, automatic backup using our secure cloud sync technology, an email at the end of each cycle that includes graphs, notes and photos, and your transaction history in a .csv file, transactions that are instantly synced with multiple users in a shared spending journal, access to your spending journal with multiple devices, and access to all future added features.

What's New in Version 1.2

Spense Plus updates:

- * Redesigned for iOS 7
- * Add or edit a note or photo for any transaction
- * End of Cycle email now includes category amounts and total amount spent for cycle in chart legend and note and photo columns in the transaction history
