Saint Petersburg, Russia - ActyMac today announced DutyWatch 1.3, an update to their Employee Monitoring Software for Mac OS X. ActyMac DutyWatch monitor and control employee

Mac's in an invisible, stealth mode. All activity is recorded so you will know everything your employees are posting, opening and use. You will have a quick top-level view of everything they have been doing over the past day, week, month or several months.

DutyWatch is completely invisible to your employees. It runs silently and unobtrusively while logging everything that happens on your employee's computers. ActyMac DutyWatch captures all keystrokes, makes periodic screen captures of employee's desktops, as well as logs programs that are opened or closed.

Easy to use, DutyWatch automatically takes hundreds of snapshots every hour so that you can see everything employees do on the computer and Internet. ActyMac DutyWatch includes an alarm system that triggers on keywords. You can program it to notify you by e-mail every time the keyword was used. For example for censored words or any words which can tell you that your employee is up to mischief.

ActyMac DutyWatch records all typed emails, chats, IMs, web sites or web searches. Program capture screenshots of current work and store all running programs. ActyMac DutyWatch is a powerful tool to address employee productivity while protecting your company against security breaches and/or disloyal employees.

Useful Charts and Graphics show all Application and Keyboard usage. You can select a Time Range of monitoring and Export data to most popular format such as HTML, csv or text.
